"Flint" Gladiolus Tray

Strong - Durable - Handy

The above cut illustrates a tray designed for Gladiolus, or other bulbs. It is 14" x 24" in size and 4" deep, made of hard wood with six triangular corner posts which are dove-tailed to add rigidity and strengthen the corners. The posts are made one inch higher than the top of crate to allow other crates to be stacked on top and afford ventilation.

The cut shows several wood strips across the bottom and on the inside is a fine galvanized wire screen closely tacked on the four sides, making it impossible for the smallest cornel to pass through.

In the center is a partition to which the sides and bottom are securely fastened and as the cut shows the top of this partition is a handle by which the crate can be carried.

Bulbs may be dug and put in these crates, dried, cleaned and stored without changing from one to the other, thereby reducing loss of bulbs or losing names to a minimum.

Price 50 cents each. 5 trays packed in package.

We do not raise seedlings. This mixture is composed entirely of named varieties mixed together.

We sell flowers at the roadside from this list of Glads at an amazing profit to us. We have started a number of other stands by others who have made good.

This list of Glads contains nearly all the colors to be found in the Gladiolus kingdom, and the Gladiolus is hard to beat in this respect. We have a large number of varieties that commence to bloom early, also varieties that continue to bloom until frost rather stops them.

We advise for roadside stands the first three sizes.
